Abstract:

The Kopp Co.'s (Cleveland, Ohio) Human Resource Management Software System (HRMSS) consists of 3 modules: 1. a main module that manipulates a central employee database, 2. an applicant-tracking module that controls access to 3 databases -- applicant-tracking, open-position tracking, and Equal Employment Opportunity-tracking, and 3. an expanded main module that extends its capabilities with a number of useful features, such as a human resource database and code screens. The human resource database has 6 screens, including organization incumbent data, vacation, sick leave, and personal leave summary information. All 3 modules have desirable user-friendly features, and they each have a report writer program, permitting the production of custom reports. HRMSS also has a built-in security system. The firm plans to add modules for payroll that will interface with the expanded main module and a wage-salary program that will address job analysis, job evaluation, and market survey analysis.

Rational Salary Management

Abstract:

Traditional job evaluation procedures cause harmful adversarial relationships between compensation staff and line supervisors. Systems based on the factor comparison job evaluation method, factor point plans, or market value plans are insufficiently precise to be used as reliable tools for logical job evaluation and salary range determination. A "consensus group" job evaluation plan is presented. It is essentially a factor-ranking process by which as many as 150 jobs can be processed in half a day. The job value data generated are computer processed into a calculated job value for every job in a company relative to every other job. The entire procedure generates confidence in and immediate acceptance of the results. Consensus group evaluation is: 1. easily understood by both line and staff personnel, 2. readily embraced by top management, 3. inexpensive to acquire and maintain, and 4. easily implemented. With consensus group evaluation, salary administration becomes a rational process.

©Tenet Healthcare, the State of Florida and the USDA.

Verifiers Access the Data via Phone & Internet

With appropriate security clearances, lenders and other organizations can access The Work Number database automatically to verify information provided by employees in loan applications. Lenders have several options to access the service that includes calling 1-900-555-WORK; calling a toll-free phone number or using the Internet. Users of the toll-free phone line and Internet can be invoiced by ©TALX or charge their transactions to a credit card.

The Work Number as a Predictable Revenue Stream

Verifiers pay a nominal transaction cost ranging from $5 to $11 for each verification. ©TALX estimates that 30,000 verifiers access the service each month, including 1,000 "member" verifiers who are frequent users.

"The Work Number is our fastest-growing business segment and represents our most predictable source of revenue," commented Bill Canfield, president of ©TALX. "As we continue to steadily add records to our multi-employer database, we can easily predict revenue from recurring transactions," he said.

Revenue from The Work Number increased from $1.6 million in fiscal 1997 to $4.3 million in fiscal 1998, and to $9.1 in fiscal 1999, ended March 31, 1999.

About The Work Number

Before granting a loan, a lender typically contacts the loan applicant's employer to verify the employee's employment and salary. Employers are deluged with such requests for information and incur significant administrative costs to process them.

The Work Number service offers employers an automated solution by allowing companies to feed their payroll records into a national database. In addition to lenders, the service is also used by property managers who wish to verify the employment of lease applicants as well as human resource managers checking the background on job applicants.

About ©TALX Corp.

St. Louis-based ©TALX Corp. provides software, outsourcing and other services, such as interactive Web, interactive voice response (IVR) and call center solutions, to large organizations such as federal government agencies and Fortune 500 companies. The company offers two branded solutions for the Human Resource, Benefits and Payroll market: The Work Number(R) and Employee Central(TM).

Statements in this press release expressing the expectations of management may be forward-looking and involve uncertainties. ©TALX investment information is detailed in documents filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Papa John's slices up the payment pie with Bottomline Technologies' PayBase*Ioma's Payroll Manager's Report; New York; Aug 1999; Anonymous;*

Papa John's slices up the payment pie with Bottomline Tec*nologies' PayBaseg. The company uses PayBase to process weekly payroll for more than 13,000 employees in more than 475 corporate restaurants, as well as employee payroll for several Papa John's franchises. Overall, the operation creates 52,000 checks a month. Additionally, A/P payments for approximately 30 Papa John's vendors total between 800 and 6,000 checks each month. The PayBase 32 software provides the company with a centralized, integrated payroll and vendor payment system. For payroll operations, the PayBase architecture produces LaserChecks from Papa John's Peoplesoft Financials feed, and converts blank security paper to checks. A/P data is processed through the company's Oracle Financials suite, and then downloaded into the LaserCheck system. Checks are produced complete with signatures, logos, custom forms, bank information, and MICR lines. Contact: Bottomline Technologies, 800-243-2528.

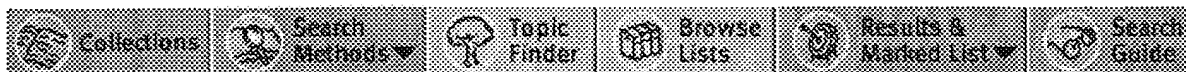

* States gear up to accept electronic wage reporting. An IVR system for electronic payroll tax payments and wage reporting is now up and running at the State of California Employment Development Department. This cost-efficient process allows employers to file their state wage reports and remit tax payments in a paperless environment. The data that is telefiled by employers reaches the mainframe database within 48 hours as opposed to paper filing, which could take up to two months. The system performs calculations for the employer that saves time and eliminates errors. Employers file using a toll-free number, so there is no charge to the company. The system includes an electronic funds transfer component to process tax payments without the use of paper processing. Renaissance Government Solutions, a business unit of Renaissance Worldwide (www.rens.com) set up the system. It also is currently helping 20 state departments of tax and revenue with streamlining their tax submittal processes.

Considering outsourcing your benefits? How about "Websourcing"? In this high-tech version of the typical outsourcing contract, the outsourcing company works almost exclusively through a Web site. Online Benefits, Inc. (Babylon, N.Y.), for example, will develop an electronic benefits information center that can range from information-only benefits policies to multi-media presentations and whatif modeling for retirement planning and flexible spending accounts. Your company's customized benefits site is on a secure part of Online's Web site. The biggest advantage, of course, is the cost. A company with 100 employees will pay about $6,000 for the first year for basic service and about $4,000 for annual maintenance. Soon to come: Full online enrollment capabilities. For more information, visit www.online-benefits.com

* Positive Pay for any organization using any bank. Payroll professionals can now utilize positive pay regardless of the bank their companies use. IPS of Boston has introduced DoubleCheck, a positive pay software system for Windows 95/98 and Windows NT. It provides any size company with an easy way to reduce check fraud and improve the reconciliation process. This software accepts almost any fixed or delimited payment file format and automatically configures and transmits a positive pay file in the format acceptable to the users bank. The file is transmitted to the bank over a direct modem connection or a secure Web site. The bank then has a copy of the user's check run, including check numbers, date, dollar amounts, and account numbers. As checks are presented for payment, they are compared to the positive pay file and discrepancies in the information trigger an alert by the bank to the end-user, who can then review the check to determine if it should be paid or not. It comes with a step by step tutorial to guide users in setting up the product. Price: $495. For more information, call 781356-7400 or visit www.positivepay.com

SOFTWARE

Software 2000 has upgraded three modules of its Financial Management 2000 (FM2000) series for the IBM AS/400: General Ledger 8.0, Accounts Receivable 4.0, and Fixed Assets 7.0. GL2000 release 8.0 features two new modules, Transcoding and Interdivisional Balancing, as well as National Language Enablement, so users can see text and messages in their native language. It also features enhancements to the existing currency processing capabilities, to allow intercompany processing between organizations using different currencies. A new feature translates financial statements from one currency to another. The new FA2000 release 7.0 features an interface to the Accounts Payable 2000 module, so that when an invoice gets keyed into the AP module it is sent automatically to FA2000. Another new feature enables the general ledger company to be different from the fixed asset company. A new year-end summary report specifies the total depreciation taken for each asset throughout the entire year. Upgrades are available free to current customers.

Computer Associates International, Inc. has brought out ACCPAC Simply Accounting for Windows version 2.0. The new version allows entry of cash purchases or cash sales as singular transactions rather than through multiple journals. It takes advantage of Windows Dynamic Data Exchange so users can transfer data to other Windows programs. Other enhancements are flexible transaction handling so payments and cash receipts can be reversed easily and negative amounts can be entered, and improved forms handling, which includes multiple form sizes, with greater detail.

Palo Alto Software is shipping its Business Management Toolkit version 2.0 for doing professional business budgeting, budget and milestone tracking, management, and follow-up. The software offers a simple way to keep track of a plan from conception to implementation. The user builds specific budgets, links them to strategy, and then manages the difference between budgeted and actual spending. The software works with such spreadsheets as Quattro Pro, Lotus 1-2-3, and Microsoft Excel on either PC or Macintosh computers.

MICA Accounting Software has introduced MICA IV version 2.01, a DOS-based fully integrated accounting system providing General Ledger, Accounts Receivable, Accounts Payable Inventory Control, Payroll, Job Cost, Sales Order, Purchase Order Processing, Bank Reconciliation, and Point of Sale. MICA IV 2.01 provides multiuser capabilities in a network environment. A Windows TM interface module is available to access MICA IV 2.01 from the Windows Program Manager screen. The new version includes many enhancements to all the modules.

Sirius Software has made available Sirius TM Business Accounting for Windows and Windows networks. It is a full-featured, high-end accounting and management package with 18 integrated applications. In addition to general accounting, Sirius Business Accounting has applications to meet the needs of specific industries. During setup, all applications can be fine tuned with parameters for the individual company and user. The Sirius Service and Rental Manager provides service work orders, repetitive billing, and service history for almost any type of service company. Gravel and Sand Billing provides invoicing and integration to accounts receivable for gravel, sand, or asphalt yards. Contractors will find Sirius Job Cost, Item (AIA) Billing, and Time and Material Billing useful. All Sirius applications are tied together with Sirius Menus, Office, and Utilities.

State Of The Art Inc. has enhanced its M.A.S 90(R) Evolution/2 TM Time and Billing module for the professional services industry. The Level 1.40 release incorporates more than 35 enhancements, including the ability to edit work in progress (WIP) so end-users can continually update WIP throughout the billing process while operating the billing system. Other enhancements are the ability to track project completion dates in schedule/budget maintenance; the option to enter bill text by category during billing entry; billing worksheets that provide more detailed information; detailed transaction tracking; manual assignment of invoice numbers and dates; the ability to create and print standard rate code description; expanded 75-character bill text lines; and employee WIP reports. The Time and Billing module may be used alone or integrated with the company's GL, A/P, Payroll, and Library and Report Master modules.

Zebra Express is introducing easy, fast, full-featured, integrated accounting software for Windows, Zebra Express. The user can access several journals simultaneously, transfer between files, perform job costing, enter comments on purchase orders, calculate sales commissions, print checks, generate reports, and even scan in photographs of employees, products, and UPC codes. The eight modules are General Ledger, Accounts Receivable, Accounts Payable, Inventory Control, Sales Order Entry, Purchase Order Maintenance, Fixed Assets, and Payroll & Personnel. Among other features are the ability to manage multiple classifications, such as multiple warehouse locations, customer classes, and special pricing and the option to customize all lists to suit the user's needs.

Micro Vision Software has made available at no cost the 1993 TAX RELIEF tax planning software module. This tax planner incorporates the tax law changes for 1993. It uses the tax payer's 1992 tax data for the basis of 1993 planning. All pertinent income and deduction figures may be changed easily for "what if" analysis. Accessed from Micro Vision Software's TAX RELIEF 1040 program, the tax planner provides a "married filing jointly" versus "married filing separately" comparison and also calculates alternative minimum tax as well as self-employment and other taxes.

Circle No. 37

Austin Computer Resources, Inc. has introduced Buy the Hour, time and billing software for Windows, which accurately and easily tabulates time and associated fees through the use of time sheets. Key features include ease of customization to any practice, easy time sheet entry, detailed work descriptions, multiple billing rates, extensive tracking, simplified bill processing, and an unlimited number of entries. The program provides several methods of addressing billing rates, including hourly, retainer, contingency, straight fee, or nonbillable. Buy the Hour comes with an extensive array of report formats.

Circle No. 38

Arbor Software Corporation has made available a major new release of Essbase,™ workgroup software for multidimensional analysis applications across an enterprise. Essbase 3.0 features major enhancements in four areas: intuitive application development and maintenance; tools for integration with all major external data sources and flexible application customization; support for large-scale applications; and new cross-platform access. Essbase is accessed directly from Microsoft Excel or Lotus 1-2-3 spreadsheets. It is useful for budgeting, consolidations, enterprise information systems, ad hoc analysis and reporting, product mix analysis, revenue forecasting, and pricing analysis. The software runs on Macintosh clients and PC clients running Windows 3.1 and MS-DOS connected to servers running OS/2 and Windows NT over major network operating systems.

Solomon Software is releasing a System Evaluation Kit (SEK) of its new Solomon IV/Windows SQL-based client/server accounting information system. The SEK, available on CD-ROM, includes NetWare SQL (5 user license), System Manager, General Ledger, A/P, A/R, Order Processing, Inventory, R&R SQL Report Writer, and the Solomon IV Customization Manager.

Circle No. 40

BUSINESS SERVICES

Consumer Health Services, Inc. (CHS) has introduced Emissary, a telecommunications tool to help employees better understand and adhere to their company benefit plan. The employees are given an 800 number that connects them to an Emissary employee benefit representative. The representatives use the client company's name, as well as scripts tailored to the company's culture. They provide details about employee benefit programs such as group health plans, 401(k) programs, and medical providers in managed care networks. The service is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and is particularly useful for companies with large retiree workforces spread geographically all over the country.

Notifax Corporation, is offering three services. TAXALERT, an automated tax reminder service, sends faxes to customers informing them that a tax filing date is coming up and telling them which form to file, its due date, and the agency that requires it. Multiple advance warnings can be ordered. FAXMINDER, a personal message service, reminds subscribers about any events that will take place over any future interval, such as birthdays or expiration of insurance policies. FAXCAST sends individualized faxes to a customer-supplied fax list at specified intervals. For example, an accountant can notify clients of filing changes or a merchant can let customers know about an upcoming sale.

EQUIPMENT

BOSS International, Ltd. has introduced Time+Plus, a totally automated electronic timekeeping and payroll system. Each employee is given a personal magnetic strip card or bar code card that is run through a data entry terminal at the work site. The information collected is transmitted automatically to a central location where pay checks, timekeeping, labor costing, and government reports are generated. In addition to a VeriFone data entry terminal, dedicated phone lines, and other ancillary equipment and supplies, Time+Plus includes an IBM-compatible 486-DX computer, a Hewlett-Packard HP-III LaserJet printer, and a dot matrix printer. Time+Plus STPS is a stand-alone system for companies with 100 or more employees that want to manage their timekeeping and payroll activities in-house. Time+Plus MTPS is a similar system for smaller companies that want to out-source their timekeeping and payroll activities via Time+Plus offices nationwide.

Plasmon Data Systems has made available RF-4000, its Reflection Systems desktop CD recorder system and Plasmon writable CD medium. Among new features the system offers a double-speed recording and playback capability and random access to large databases to speed file searches. With the RF-4000 system, organizations can produce limited quantities of their own CDs in-house. The first disc requires 30 to 60 minutes to copy. Any changes or corrections can be made the same day. Even organizations that require high-volume replication can save on mastering costs by perfecting the master CD before sending it out for volume production.

3M Commercial Office Supply Division has introduced a complete line of revised Printed Post-it brand notes. The new printed pads include: 4" x 6" Post-it Voice Mail Message Pads with check-off boxes; 4" x 2-15/16" Out of the Office Pads, Routing and Request Pads, and Things to Do Pads; 4" x 5" Telephone Message Pads; Fax Notes in two sizes; and a number of other pads.
